LAWRENCE M. MEAD

Department of Politics
New York University
19 West 4th Street, #209
New York, NY 10012-1119
Phone: 212-998-8540

3 Washington Square Village #11M
New York, NY 10012-1806
Fax: 212-995-4184
E-mail: LMM1@nyu.edu

POSITIONS

Professor of Politics and Public Policy, Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service, New York University, 2008-present. Affiliate appointment at NYU's public policy school.

Professor of Politics, New York University, 1993-present. Appointed Assistant Professor 1979, Associate Professor 1984. Teach public policy and American government, conduct research on welfare and antipoverty policy and the politics of these issues.

John L. Weinberg/Goldman Sachs & Company Visiting Professor, Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, Princeton University, 1994-5.

Visiting Professor of Public Policy, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, 1993-4.

Visiting Distinguished Professor, La Follette Institute of Public Affairs, University of Wisconsin--Madison, spring 1987.

Positions in Washington, DC, 1973-9:

Deputy Director of Research, Republican National Committee, 1978-9.

Research Associate, The Urban Institute, 1975-8.

Speechwriter to the Secretary of State (Henry A. Kissinger), U.S. Department of State, 1974-5.

Policy Analyst, U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 1973-5.

EDUCATION

Public Policy: Studies in econometrics, policy analysis, organization, and budgeting, George Washington University, 1973, 1975, 1979; University of Michigan (ICPSR program in quantitative methods), summer 1981; and NYU, advanced multivariate analysis, fall 1997.

Doctor of Philosophy in political science, Harvard University, 1973. Thesis: Bentham's theories of bureaucracy, democracy, and political modernization. Advisors: Samuel H. Beer, Samuel P. Huntington.

Master of Arts in political science, Harvard University, 1968. Fields: British politics, political development, modern political theory, and international politics.

Bachelor of Arts in political science, Amherst College, 1966, magna cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa. Honors thesis: The Rethinking of British Socialism.

Studies in British politics, history, and philosophy, Malvern College (British public school), 1961-2; Oxford University, summer 1967; and University College London (Fulbright), 1970-1.

HONORS

Visiting Scholar, American Enterprise Institute, Washington, DC, 2008-present

Affiliated appointment as Professor of Politics and Public Policy, Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service, New York University, January 24, 2008

Secretary of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management, 2008-9.

John Bonython Lecturer, Centre for Independent Studies, Sydney, Australia, and Auckland, New Zealand, June 27-8, 2007

Co-winner of the Louis Brownlow Book Award for Government Matters, National Academy of Public Administration, 2005.

Member, editorial board, Journal of Policy Analysis and Management, July 25, 2005.

Member, editorial board, State and Local Government Review, March 8, 2004

Member, editorial board, Policy Studies Journal, July 23, 2003.

Visiting Research Fellow, James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions, Department of Politics, Princeton University, 2001-2.

Council, Public Policy Section, American Political Science Association, 2000-2003.

Policy Council, Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management, 1999-2002.

National Fellow, Multidisciplinary Program in Inequality and Social Policy, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, 1998-present.

Visiting Fellow, Department of Politics, Princeton University, 1995-6.

Visiting Scholar, Hoover Institution, Stanford University, March 1988.

Selection for the Foreign Service, Department of State, 1973.

Fulbright Scholarship, United Kingdom, 1970-1.

NSF Graduate Fellowships, 1966, 1969, 1970.

Amherst Political Science Prize, 1966.

PUBLICATIONS
(chronological order)

Monographs/Books

1. The Employment Service: An Institutional Analysis, R&D Monograph 51, Washington, DC: Department of Labor, 1977. (With Mark Lincoln Chadwin et al.) A study of the leading federal job placement program using field interviewing and statistical controls.

2. Institutional Analysis: An Approach to Implementation Problems in Medicaid, Washington, DC: The Urban Institute, 1977. Analysis of structural difficulties in a major federal health program using organization and political theory.

3. Beyond Entitlement: The Social Obligations of Citizenship, New York: Free Press, 1986. A study of the issue of work requirements in federal social programs and the politics surrounding them. Helped to frame the policy and political case for work-based welfare reform. Widely reviewed. Cited as a leading public policy book of the 1980s by the Washington Post, Dec. 31, 1989.

4. The New Politics of Poverty: The Nonworking Poor in America, New York: Basic Books, 1992. A study of how intractable poverty has changed American politics. Increasingly, domestic dispute is about order, personal conduct, and competence, rather than class, equality, and the scale of government. Widely reviewed.

5. The New Paternalism: Supervisory Approaches to Poverty, Washington, D.C.: Brookings, 1997 (Edited; ten other authors). The record and potential of supervisory methods in welfare , child support, homelessness, drug addiction, and education. Reviewed in The Economist and in Paul Starobin, "The Daddy State," cover story in National Journal, March 28, 1998.

6. From Welfare to Work: Lessons from America, London: Institute of Economic Affairs, 1997 (With Alan Deacon, editor, and commentators). Defense of mandatory work requirements, rebuttal by British experts.

7. Lifting Up the Poor, Washington, DC: Brookings, 2003 (with Mary Jo Bane). A dialogue on the question of what society to do about poverty, in light of the biblical tradition, with reflections on current policy.

8. Government Matters: Welfare Reform in Wisconsin, Princeton University Press, 2004. In-depth study of the Wisconsin reform, with comparisons to other states. The key to success was good government.

Co-winner of the Louis Brownlow Book Award, National Academy of Public Administration, 2005.

9. Welfare Reform and Political Theory, New York: Russell Sage Foundation, 2005 (Co-edited with Chris Beem, seven other authors). Papers on the implications of welfare reform for politics. Argues for a closer engagement between political theory and policy analysis.

10. Expanding Work Programs for Poor Men, Washington: AEI Press, 2011. The case for raising work levels among poor men through mandatory work programs. Includes a review of past programs, a state survey, and field research in six states to identify political and administrative impediments.

11. From Prophecy to Charity: How to Help the Poor, Washington: AEI Press, 2011. The nature of contemporary American poverty and how to address it from a Biblical standpoint. Differences from standard ideological and theological responses.

Academic articles

1. "Health Policy: The Need for Governance," Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, vol. 434 (Nov. 1977). Analysis of the health cost control problem using political and economic theory. Reprinted in Ellen F. Paul and Philip A. Russo, Jr., eds., Public Policy: Issues, Analysis, and Ideology, Chatham, NJ: Chatham House, 1981.

2. "Institutional Analysis for State and Local Government," Public Administration Review, vol. 39, no. 1 (Jan./Feb. 1979). Implementation research applied to the state and local level.

3. "Social Programs and Social Obligations," The Public Interest, no. 69 (Fall 1982). The problem of work obligation in social policy and its political origins and implications.

4. "Expectations and Welfare Work: WIN in New York City," Policy Studies Review, vol. 2, no. 4 (May 1983). Study of welfare employment programs in the city using field interviewing and statistical analysis. Whether welfare recipients work depends mainly on whether they are expected to, not on the environment.

5. "The Interaction Problem in Policy Analysis," Policy Sciences, vol. 16, no. 1 (Sept. 1983). Economic policy analysis alters problems in ways that make them harder to solve.

6. "A Meaning for 'Public Policy'," Policy Studies Journal, vol. 12, no. 2 (Dec. 1983). Policy studies as a form of systems analysis combining political and economic reasoning.

7. "Science vs. Analysis: A False Dichotomy," Journal of Policy Analysis and Management, vol. 4, no. 3 (Spring 1985). Policy studies as a synthesis of policy analysis and social science.

8. "Policy Studies and Political Science," Policy Studies Review, vol. 5, no. 2 (Nov. 1985). The place of public policy within political science. Extends article 6.

9. "Expectations and Welfare Work: WIN in New York State," Polity, vol. 18, no. 2 (winter 1985). Extends article 4 to New York State. Requiring recipients to work is the key to welfare employment.

10. "The Reform of Federal-State Development Programs," New York Affairs, vol. 9, no. 3 (1986). The evolution of federal economic subsidy programs before and after the Reagan cuts.

11. "The Potential for Work Enforcement: A Study of WIN," Journal of Policy Analysis and Management, vol. 7, no. 2 (Winter 1988). Extends articles 4 and 9 to the nation. Successful workfare requires high participation.

12. "The Hidden Jobs Debate," The Public Interest, no. 91 (Spring 1988). Political issues underlying the debate over whether jobs exist for the poor.

13. "The Logic of Workfare: The Underclass and Work Policy," Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, vol. 501 (Jan. 1989). The rationale for work enforcement as part of welfare reform.

14. "Should Workfare Be Mandatory? What Research Says," Journal of Policy Analysis and Management, vol. 9, no. 3 (Summer 1990). Welfare employment programs must be mandatory, not voluntary, to succeed.

15. "The New Politics of the New Poverty," The Public Interest, no. 103 (Spring 1991). How entrenched poverty has shifted the focus of social politics from equality to functioning. The main theme of monograph 4.

16. "Poverty: How Little We Know," Social Service Review, vol. 68, no. 3 (September 1994). Research on poverty has revealed little about its causes. Inquiry into the roles of public authority and culture would help.

17. "Public Policy: Vision, Potential, Limits," Policy Currents (newsletter of the Public Policy Section, APSA), February 1995. Why public policy is a potent but small field in political science. Extends articles 6 and 8.

18. "Welfare Policy: The Administrative Frontier," Journal of Policy Analysis and Management, vol. 15, no. 4 (Fall 1996). Administrative and research challenges implied by supervisory welfare reform programs.

19. "Optimizing JOBS: Evaluation Versus Administration," Public Administration Review, vol. 57, no. 2 (March/April 1997). Statistical/field interviewing analysis of JOBS performance in Wisconsin.

20. "Citizenship and Social Policy: T.H. Marshall and Poverty," Social Philosophy and Policy, vol. 14, no. 2 (Summer 1997). The problem posed for citizenship by nonworking poverty.

21. “Telling the Poor What to Do,” The Public Interest, no. 132 (Summer 1998). Why supervision of the dependent has become a trend in several areas of antipoverty policy.

22. “The Decline of Welfare in Wisconsin,” Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory, vol. 9, no. 4 (October 1999). Time series and cross-sectional analyses of Wisconsin’s dramatic caseload fall.

23. “The Twilight of Liberal Welfare Reform,” The Public Interest, no. 139 (Spring 2000). This liberal antipoverty experiment achieved slight impacts but foreshadows the paternalistic welfare of the future.

24. “Caseload Change: An Exploratory Study,” Journal of Policy Analysis and Management, vol. 19, no. 3 (Summer 2000). A model that suggests multiple policy causes for the AFDC caseload increase, 1989-94.

25. “The Politics of Welfare Reform in Wisconsin,” Polity, vol. 32, no. 4 (Summer 2000). The unusual bipartisan agreement on a work-based reform that transformed welfare in Wisconsin.

26. “Response to the Strategic Planning Report,” Policy Currents 10, no.4 (March 2001). Criticism of scholastic and populist trends in political science.

27. “Welfare Reform: Meaning and Effects,” Policy Currents 11, no. 2 (Summer 2001). Summary of welfare reform issues and the effects of the recent reform.

28. “Implementing Work Requirements in Wisconsin,” Journal of Public Policy, vol. 21, no. 3 (2002). How

Wisconsin strengthened its welfare employment programs so that they could enforce work.

29. “Welfare Reform in Wisconsin: The Local Role,” Administration and Society, vol. 33, no. 5 (November 2001). The key role of county initiatives in generating the influential Wisconsin welfare reform.

30. "Welfare Reform: Recent Policy and Politics," Review of Policy Research, vol. 19, no. 1 (Spring 2002). Applies the approach of articles 6, 8, and 17 to welfare reform policy and politics since the mid 1980s.

31, “Welfare Caseload Change: An Alternative Approach,” Policy Studies Journal 31, no. 2 (May 2003). A cross-sectional approach to explaining caseload fall can measure the policy factors better than pooled models.

32. “The Culture of Welfare Reform,” The Public Interest, no. 154 (Winter 2004). Summary of monograph 8. Good government was the key to successful welfare reform in Wisconsin.

33. “State Political Culture and Welfare Reform,” Policy Studies Journal 32, no. 2 (May 2004). Uses state case studies to show a link between good government and successful welfare reform nationwide.

34. “Research and Welfare Reform,” Review of Policy Research 22, no. 3 (May 2005). Research made only a limited contribution to welfare reform because of adverse developments in the social sciences.

35. “Policy Research: The Field Dimension,” Policy Studies Journal 33, no. 4 (November 2005). Lack of direct contact with government has caused policy research to err on several issues surrounding welfare reform.

36. “Why Anglos Lead,” The National Interest (Winter 2005/06). English-speaking countries lead the world mainly because they are well-governed at home.

37. “Welfare Reform and the ‘Platonic Master Science’: An Interview with Lawrence Mead,” Public Administration Review 66, no. 6 (November/December 2006)..

38. “Why Welfare Reform Succeeded,” Journal of Policy Analysis and Management 26, no. 2 (Spring 2007). Review of the effects of work enforcement in family welfare.

39. “Toward a Mandatory Work Policy for Men,” The Future of Children 17, no2 (September 2007). Argument for work requirements for nonworking poor men.

40. “Dependency and Democracy,” National Affairs, no. 2 (Winter 2010): 92-104. The broader political significance of welfare and welfare reform in America and other Western countries.

41. “Scholasticism in Political Science,” Perspectives on Politics 8, no. 2 (June 2010). Operationalizes and documents trends toward over-refinement in political science research.

42. “Why We Need Work Programs for Fathers,” Journal of Policy Analysis and Management 29, no. 3 (Summer 2010). Argument for mandatory work programs has part of child support enforcement.

43. “The Other Danger . . . . Scholasticism in Academic Research,” Academic Questions 23, no. 4 (December 2010). Expands the argument of article 41.

44. “Welfare Politics in Congress,” PS: Political Science and Politics 44, no. 2 (April 2011). Shows rigorously how the issues shifted over more than 30 years of welfare reform hearings in Congress.

Chapters

20 chapters in books edited by myself or others, including:

> "Social Responsibility and Minority Poverty: A Response to William Julius Wilson," Divided Opportunities: Minorities, Poverty, and Social Policy, ed. Gary D. Sandefur and Marta Tienda, New York: Plenum, 1988; ch. 10.

"The Rise of Paternalism," in The New Paternalism: Supervisory Approaches to Poverty, ed. Lawrence M. Mead, Washington, DC: Brookings, 1997, ch. 1.

"Welfare Employment," in The New Paternalism: Supervisory Approaches to Poverty, ed. Lawrence M. Mead, Washington, DC: Brookings, 1997, ch. 2.

"Are Welfare Employment Programs Effective?" Social Programs That Work, ed. Jonathan Crane, New York: Russell Sage, 1998, ch. 11.

"The Politics of Conservative Welfare Reform," in The New World of Welfare: An Agenda for Reauthorization and Beyond, ed. Rebecca M. Blank and Ron Haskins, Washington, DC: Brookings Institution, 2001, ch. 7.

"Performance Analysis," in Policy into Action: Implementation Research and Welfare Reform, ed. Mary Clare Lennon and Thomas Corbett (Washington, DC: Urban Institute Press, 2003), chap. 6.

"Welfare Reform and Citizenship," in Welfare Reform and Political Theory, ed. Lawrence M. Mead and Christopher Beem, New York: Russell Sage Foundation, 2005, ch. 8.

"Social Policy and Marriage," in Handbook of Families and Poverty, ed. D. Russell Crane and Tim B. Heaton (Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage, 2007), ch. 2.

Other publications

27 other articles, mainly on poverty, welfare, welfare reform, and related political issues, including:

"The Politics of Disadvantage," Society, vol. 35, no. 5 (July/August 1998).

"Crying Poverty," Commentary, September 2007.

16 comments on the papers or arguments of others, including:

"The Great Passivity," Perspectives on Politics 2, no. 4 (December 2004).

Comment on Sarah Burd-Sharps, Kristen Lewis, and Eduardo Borges Martins, The Measure of America, in Perspectives on Politics 7, no. 4 (December 2009): 915-17.

"The Need for Institutions," Journal of Policy Analysis and Management 29, no. 3 (Summer 2010): 619-20.

36 book reviews and review articles in journals and national newspapers, including:

Review of David Stoesz, Quixote's Ghost: The Right, the Liberati, and the Future of Social Policy, in Journal of Politics 69, no. 1 (February 2007): 274-5.

Review of Brian Steensland, The Failed Welfare Revolution: America's Struggle over Guaranteed Income Policy in Perspectives on Politics 6, no. 2 (June 2008): 394-5.

"Econs and Humans," review of Richard H. Thaler and Cass R. Sunstein, Nudge, in Claremont Review of Books, Spring 2009, pp. 18-19

19 op-ed articles on welfare, welfare reform, and related issues in the New York Times, the Washington Post, and other publications.

"And Now, 'Welfare Reform' for Men," Washington Post, March 20, 2007.

"The Poverty Puzzle," New York Post, Sept. 20, 2010, p. 27.

RESEARCH IN PROGRESS

(listed in order of proximity to publication)

"Scholasticism: Causes and Cures," further article on scholasticism for Academic Questions.

Immigration: The Cultural Issue: Long paper on this neglected question. Much of the problem assimilating recent immigrants reflects their origins in the non-Western world. Immigration must be limited and other steps taken come to terms with these differences.

American Primacy: The essence of America is not freedom but strength. More than other societies, Americans shoulder the burdens of freedom. That is the main source of American wealth and power, and the reason the United States is likely to remain the world's dominant nation.

Poverty and Political Theory. Traditional theory, including Rawls and his critics, debates the meaning of justice while the competence of citizens is taken for grants But as politics has addressed social problems, the focus has come to be more how to

TESTIMONY

21 appearances before Congressional committees, most recently:

> "Work Versus Education and Training in TANF," hearing on "The Role of Education and Training in the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) Program," Subcommittee on Income Security and Family Support, Committee on Ways and Means, U.S. House of Representatives, 111th Cong., 2nd sess., April 22, 2010.

14 appearances before national commissions and other public or quasi-public bodies.

> "Welfare Reform in New York," hearing on "The Effect of Welfare Reform Policy in New York State," Assembly Standing Committee on Social Services, New York, NY, July 7, 2005.

CONFERENCES/PRESENTATIONS

Academic and policy

52 papers, mostly at conferences of the American Political Science Association, the Midwest Political Science Association, and the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management. Many papers were later published. Recent examples:

> "Welfare Politics in Congress: An Analysis of Hearings, 1962-1996," conference of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management, Washington, DC, Nov. 5, 2009

> "Poverty and Citizenship: Recent Developments," Thematic Session: The Political Sociology of Poverty, Participation, and Citizenship," conference of the American Sociological Association, Atlanta, GA, Aug. 17, 2010.

56 presentations not involving a paper. Recent examples.

> "Can We Put Poor Men to Work?" National Association for Welfare Research and Statistics, Albany, NY, July 13, 2009.

> "Government Experience and Political Science," Working Group on Practicing Politics, conference of the American Political Science Association, Washington, DC, Sept. 3, 2010.

43 panels that I proposed or chaired, mostly on poverty, welfare, or welfare reform. Recent examples:

> "Prison Reentry," conference on "Can We Put Poor Men To Work?" American Enterprise Institute, Washington, DC, May 27, 2009.
>
> "The Politics of TANF Reauthorization," conference of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management, Washington, DC, Nov. 5, 2009..

48 panels where I was a panelist or discussant. Recent examples:

> Discussant, panel on "Reforming Income Support: Normative and Political Feasibility," conference on "The Social Contract Revisited: The Modern Welfare State, Workshop II," Foundation for Law, Justice and Society and Centre for Socio-Legal Studies, Oxford University, Oct. 10-12, 2007.
>
> Discussant, Amy Wax, Race, Wrongs, and Remedies, University of Pennsylvania Law School, Philadelphia, PA, Jan. 19, 2010.

Other presentations

40 invited lectures, mostly at schools, colleges, and universities. Recent examples.

> "The Poverty Issue at the End of History," Bradley Lecture Series, American Enterprise Institute, Washington, DC, Jan. 8, 2007.
>
> "Anglo Primacy at the End of History: The Deep Roots of Power," John Bonython Lecture, Centre for Independent Studies, Sydney, Australia, and Auckland, New Zealand, June 27-8, 2007.
>
> "Poverty at the End of History," Kulla Lecture Series, Department of Political Science, Colgate University, Hamilton, NY, Nov. 1, 2007.

33 paper presentations. Recent examples.

> "Responding to Poverty: Justice vs. Charity," Yale Divinity School, Yale University, New Haven, CT, Nov. 29, 2007.
>
> "Can We Put Poor Men to Work?" Institute of Economic Affairs, London, UK, June 7, 2010.

59 debates or colloquia about poverty, welfare, and welfare reform. Recent examples::

> Debate on poverty and inequality in America, Multinational Institute of American Studies, Steinhardt School of Education, New York University, New York, NY, June 30, 2008.
>
> "Poor men, welfare, and conditionality," Policy Exchange, London, UK, June 9, 2010.

166 seminars and talks to small groups at universities, think tanks, foundations, agencies, etc.:

> Talk to Dutch officials involved in welfare reform, New York University, New York, NY, April 7, 2008.
>
> "Help and Hassle: New Proposals for Welfare Reform," Civitas, London, UK, June 9, 2010.

MEDIA

Often interviewed and cited by journalists or columnists writing about poverty and welfare in national and international publications, including the New York Times, Washington Post, and The Economist.

Appeared on many local radio and television talk shows in New York, Washington, and other cities to discuss poverty, welfare, and welfare reform..

Appeared on "On Point," WBUR, opposite W.J. Wilson and Thomas Shapiro, to discuss poverty in America, Sept. 30, 2005.

Interviewed on WNET, Channel 13, about the report of the New York City Commission for Economic Opportunity, Jan. 19, 2007.

Many appearances on national radio and television shows, including the "McNeil/Lehrer News Hour," May 9, 1990; "All Things Considered," Jan. 4, 1995, Oct. 26, 1999, April 17, 2006; the "News Hour with Jim Lehrer," Aug. 13, 1997, August 2, 1999; CBS Evening News, June 9, 1998; NBC News, March 16, 2002; "Morning Edition," NPR, April 18, 2007.

International: Interviewed by the BBC about welfare reform in America, August 1, 1996; March 26, 1998. Multiple interviews and broadcasts while speaking on welfare reform in Australia, July 2000, August 2004, June 2007.

Press and media interviews in Britain during 2010-11. Profile, Randeep Ramesh, "Voice of authority," The Guardian, London, June 16, 2010. Toby Helm, Anushka Asthana, and Paul Harris, "How Britain's new welfare state was born in the USA," The Observer, London, Nov. 7, 2010, on my role in the new government's welfare policy.

Made film on British welfare reform with the BBC, broadcast on Newsnight, Feb. 15, 2011.

ACTIVITIES

Policy and research

National Advisory Panel, Study of Poverty and Family Structure in the Inner City, University of Chicago (William J. Wilson), 1985-8.

Working Seminar on the Family and American Welfare Policy, a conservative/moderate study group on welfare reform, American Enterprise Institute, Washington, DC, 1986-7.

Advisor to the Low Income Opportunity Working Group, Domestic Policy Council, the White House, on its report on welfare reform, Sept. 1986-Jan. 1987. Met with President Reagan, Dec. 18, 1986.

National advisory board of New Hope, an experimental job and wage guarantee program for the poor, Milwaukee, WI, 1991-9.

Advisor on welfare to Rudolph Giuliani during his winning campaign for mayor of New York City, 1993, and to Mayor Giuliani's aides, 1997.

Steering Committee of the Management and Evaluation Project (MEP), which oversees the assessment of Wisconsin welfare reform, Department of Workforce Development, State of Wisconsin, 1996-2002.

Advisory groups to the U.S. General Accounting Office, the Urban Institute, the Committee on Economic Development, and New York State on research on welfare reform, 1996-present.

Management Advisory Committee, Human Resources Administration, New York, NY, July, 1999-2001.

Advisory committee on welfare policy, Presidential campaign of Gov. George W. Bush, April 1999-Nov. 2000.

National Advisory Panel of the Urban Seminar Series on Children's Health and Safety, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, 2000-2.

Technical Advisory Group (TAG) for a RAND synthesis of the research on the effects of welfare reform, funded by the U.S. Administration for Children and Families, March 7, 2001.

Attended lunch with Assistant Secretary Wade Horn, Doug Besharov, and senior Congressional aides to discuss the implementation of TANF reauthorization, American Enterprise Institute, Washington, DC, Jan. 9, 2007.

Consultation with Stephen Brien and Debbie Scott, working on the economic dependency aspect of the "Breakdown Britain" project on social policy for the British Conservative Party, at New York University, New York, NY, March 7, 2007

I often meet with officials from foreign countries to discuss poverty and welfare reform: Meetings with the British Secretary of State for Social Security in New York, NY, Oct. 8, 1999, April 28, 2003, Feb. 10, 2005; March 6, 2008. Meetings with Israeli officials, March 4, 2005; Feb. 2, 2007; Dutch, April 7, 2008.

Meeting with Vicki Turetsky, Commissioner, U.S. Office of Child Support Enforcement, about expanding work programs for men owing child support, Washington, DC, Jan. 13, 2010.

Named to working group on prison reform by Newt Gingrich, American Enterprise Institute, Washington, DC, Jan. 14, 2010.

Meeting with Steve Hilton and other senior policy advisors to the Prime Minister, 10 Downing St., London, June 9, 2010.

Meetings of welfare reform experts, Washington, DC, Sept. 2, and Nov. 12-13, 2010, to decide what to propose after the election.

Consulting

Consultations with senior government officials about welfare reform during conferences in Britain, March 1987, June 1997, December 2002, June 2010; New Zealand, March 1997; Australia, July 2000.

Consultations with officials in New Jersey and South Carolina about welfare reform and applications for federal research funds, June 1997.

Consultant to the Human Resources Administration, New York, NY, January 1998-May 1999.

Meeting on welfare reform and other social problems in Indiana, at the American Enterprise Institute, Washington, DC, Feb. 21, 2006.

Professional

American Political Science Association

Member, Committee on the Merriam Award (given to a political scientist who has influenced policy through research and public service), 1987.

Member, Committee on the Leonard D. White Award (best dissertation in public administration), 2003.

APSA Public Policy Section:

Council, 2000-3.

Chair, Committee on the Wildavsky Award, to honor a key book in policy studies, 2001.

Member, committee to recruit a new editor for Policy Studies Journal, 2003.

Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management.

Program Committee for the annual conference, 1987, 1996, 1998, 2006-7.

Policy Council, 1999-2002.

Chair, Nominating Committee, 2002.

Chair, committee on the Vernon Prize, 2005 (best article in the Journal of Policy Analysis and Management in the past year).

Member, Diversity Committee, 2007.

Secretary, 2008-9.

American Society for Political and Legal Philosophy, member since 1999.

Manuscript reviewer for publishers and many refereed journals in public policy and political science.

One of five reviewers of university proposals for federal funding for a national poverty research center, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, DC, in 1995-6, and again in 2002.

Date: 25 February 2011